IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF ARIZONA

Berendo Property, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

Closed Loop Refining and Recovery Incorporated, et al.,

Defendants.

No. CV-22-01721-PHX-SMM

ORDER

Pending before the Court is Plaintiffs and Defendant UNICOR's Joint Motion for Entry of Consent Decree. (Doc. 18).

I. BACKGROUND

Plaintiffs are four companies who, between them, own two warehouses in Phoenix, Arizona. (Doc. 1 at 3). Between 2010 and 2016, Plaintiffs leased these warehouses to Defendant Closed Loop Refining and Recovery, Inc. (Id. at 4). Closed Loop used these warehouses to operate recycling centers that recycled—or claimed to recycle—CRT waste. (Id. at 11-12). CRT (cathode ray tubes) are used in older television, computer, and other electronic displays and contain lead, which is listed as a hazardous substance under the Comprehensive Environmental, Response, Compensation, and Liability Act ("CERCLA"). (Id. at 2-3).

Plaintiffs allege that Closed Loop operated a sham recycling scheme, in which it charged companies for accepting their CRT waste and—rather than recycling it in accordance with CERCLA—stockpiled and ultimately abandoned it. (Id. at 12). Plaintiffs allege that Closed Loop accepted approximately 195 million pounds of CRT waste, of which 106 million was abandoned at the warehouses. (Id.) They allege that the cost of removing the waste and cleaning up the warehouse sites may exceed $15 million. (Id. at 20).

On October 7, 2022, Plaintiffs filed suit against 51 defendants, seeking cost recovery, declaratory relief, and common law damages. (Doc. 1). Defendants include Closed Loop and 50 Arranger/Transporter Defendants, among them Federal Prisons Industries, Inc., a wholly-owned government corporation, doing business as UNICOR. (Id. at 10). According to Closed Loop's records, UNICOR arranged for the transport of over 14 million pounds of waste to the warehouses. (Doc. 18 at 2).

On October 31, 2022, Plaintiffs and UNICOR filed a Joint Motion for Entry of Consent Decree. (Doc. 18). Under the proposed consent decree, the United States, on behalf of UNICOR, agrees to pay Plaintiffs $995,000. (Doc. at 7). This money will go towards response costs. (Id.) No objection to the proposed consent decree has been filed.

II. DISCUSSION

A. Legal Standard

In determining whether to approve a consent decree in the CERCLA context, a court need not determine whether the settlement is the best possible settlement available. City of Colton v. Am. Promotional Events, Inc., 281 F. Supp. 3 1009, 1012 (C.D. Cal. 2017). Rather, courts must determine whether the proposed settlement is procedurally fair, substantively fair, reasonable, and consistent with the policies of CERCA. State of Arizona v. Nucor Corp., 825 F. Supp. 1452 (D. Ariz. 1992), aff'd on other grounds, 66 F.3d 213 (9th Cir. 1995), United States v. Montrose Chemical Corp. of Calif., 50 F.3d 741 (9th Cir. 1995).

B. Procedural Fairness

To determine procedural fairness, courts "must look to the negotiation process and 'attempt to gauge its candor, openness, and bargaining balance." Nucor, 825 F. Supp. at 1456 (quoting U.S. v. Cannons Eng'g Corp., 899 F.2d 79, 86 (1st Cir. 1990)). Toward this end, the parties state that negotiations were executed in good faith and at arm's length. (Doc. 18 at 6).

The Court finds the consent decree was the result of procedural fairness. Both parties were represented in settlement negotiations by experienced attorneys. (Doc. 18-1 at 4). Plaintiffs have diligently identified and named as Defendants all potentially responsible parties and have invited all Defendants to negotiate settlements. (Doc. 18-1 at 20). These negotiations with other Defendants are ongoing. (Id.)

C. Substantive Fairness and Reasonableness

Substantive fairness "concerns the issues of corrective justice and accountability." Nucor, 825 F. Supp. at 1458. "A party should bear the costs of the harm for which it is legally responsible." Cannon, 899 F.2d at 87. In determining the reasonableness of a consent decree, courts will consider the "efficacy of the settlement in compensating the public for actual and anticipated remedial and response costs and the relative strength of the parties' litigating." Nucor, 825 F. Supp. at 1464. As part of this analysis, courts examine whether the settlement amount is proportional to the settling defendant's share of responsibility for the environmental damage. Montrose, 50 F.3d at 747; Cannons, 899 F.2d at 87.

The parties' proposed consent decree is substantively fair and reasonable. Plaintiffs allege—based on Closed Loop's records—that UNICOR was responsible for 14 million out of the 195 million tons of CRT waste that reached the warehouse. This amounts to a little over 7% of the total CRT waste. The estimated cleanup cost is over $15 million. The $995,000 that UNICOR is agreeing to contribute to cleanup costs therefore represents a little over 6.6% of the total cleanup costs. Because the settlement amount is proportional to UNICOR's share of responsibility and the funds will be put toward cleanup efforts, the consent decree is substantively fair and reasonable.

E. Consistency with CERCLA

One of CERCLA's primary goals is encouraging early settlements. See Montrose at 745-56. This helps further the goal of ensuring prompt site cleanups. Nucor, 825 F. Supp.

7 8

at 1464. An additional goal of CERCLA is to ensure accountability from those responsible for any abandoned waste. Id.

Parties' consent decree is firmly in line with these goals. This settlement is prompt—filed less than a month after Plaintiffs filed their initial complaint. It will streamline any future litigation by removing a defendant from the case and will quickly transfer money into the cleanup fund. Further, it holds UNICOR accountable for their contribution to the abandoned CRT waste at the warehouses.

F. Pro Tanto v. Pro Rata Crediting

Under CERCLA, district courts have discretion in allocating response costs among liable parties. Am. Cyanamid Co. v. Capuano, 381 F.3d 6, 21 (1st Cir. 2004). In determining how one defendant's settlement affects the liability of other defendants, courts may employ either a pro tanto or pro rata crediting approach. Ameripride Servs. Inc. v. Texas E. Overseas Inc., 782 F.3d 474, 483-4 (9th Cir. 2015). Under a pro rata approach, a court must determine the liability of all settling and non-settling defendants and then reduce the shares of non-settling defendants by the percentage of the settlor's fault. Akzo Nobel Coatings, Inc. v. Aigner Corp., 197 F.3d 302, 308 (7th Cir. 1999). Under the pro tanto approach, non-settling defendants' liability is simply reduced by the dollar amount of the settlements. Ameripride, 782 F.3d at 484.

In the CERCLA context, pro tanto crediting encourages defendants to settle and plaintiffs to promptly and voluntarily clean up hazardous substances. Ameripride, 782 F.3d at 487. It is also easier to apply here than the pro rata approach, which would necessitate that the Court determine the liability of 50 other Defendants before it can approve the Consent Decree.

The Court uses its discretion to hold that UNICOR's settlement payment will be credited pro tanto in determining other Defendants' equitable shares of remediation costs.

III. CONCLUSION

Because the consent decree is substantively and procedurally fair, reasonable, and consistent with CERCLA, the Court will grant the Motion to Enter (Doc. 18), approve the

1	settlement, and sign and enter the consent decree.
2	Accordingly,
3	IT IS HEREBY ORDERED granting the Joint Motion for Entry of Consent
4	Decree. (Doc. 18). The consent decree will be entered as a separate document.
5	IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that parties shall file a notice when payment has
6	been made in accordance with the Consent Decree. Upon receipt of such notice, the Court
7	shall dismiss with prejudice Plaintiffs' claims against Defendant UNICOR.
8	IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant UNICOR's settlement payment will
9	be credited pro tanto in determining other Defendants' equitable shares of remediation
10	costs.
